COMMENTARY ON READINGS

First Reading: The prophet foretells a time when all nations shall make their way to Jerusalem to be taught in the house of God. It will be a time of everlasting justice and peace in God's dwelling place. (Isaiah 2:1-5)

RESPONSORIAL PSALM (Ps. 24)

"Let the Lord enter; he is king of glory."

The prophet foretells a time when all nations shall make their way to Jerusalem to be taught in the house of God. It will be a time of everlasting justice and peace in God's dwelling place. Res.

Who can ascend the mountain of the LORD?
or who may stand in his holy place?
One whose hands are sinless, whose heart is clean,
who desires not what is vain. Res.

He shall receive a blessing from the LORD,
a reward from God his savior.
Such is the race that seeks for him,
that seeks the face of the God of Jacob.. Res.

Second Reading: We should give up all the things we prefer to do under cover of darkness, but rather, live decently as people do in the daytime while waiting for the Coming of the Lord Jesus. (Romans 13:11-14)

Gospel: In the days of Noah many who lived evil lives were surprisingly overtaken by the Flood and perished. Learning from that experience, Christians must live decently and remain on guard because the Lord's Day will come on the day and at the hour we least expect. (Matthew 24:37-44)
